

WOMEN OF HILO TO TAKE HELPFUL PART IN SEPTEMBER ACTIVITIES

HILO DRAMATIC CLUB PLANS DISPLAY OF FLOWERS AND TEA-ROOM AT FAIR

Organization is Devoted to Charity and Doing Much Good Work—Visitors at Its Exhibit on Kuhio Wharf Will Be Most Cordially Welcomed

The Hilo Dramatic Club is planning a feature in connection with the County Fair which well deserves the patronage of all visitors while the fair is in session. This is a tea-room, rest-room and first-aid headquarters on Kuhio Wharf, the scene of the big fair.

Mrs. C. C. Kennedy, who is president of the Hilo Dramatic Club, and her capable colleagues of the organization have put the project on a business-like basis. A certain percentage of the proceeds of the tea-room sales will be turned into the County Fair treasury and the remainder will go toward the club's worthy purpose of raising funds for emergency work.

Light luncheonettes will be served at the club's booth while the fair is in session. Good sandwiches, cakes and tea will be available for the visitors.

A very pretty part will be the flower exhibit, to which are being contributed many handsome flowers and pieces of greenery.

Miss Kate W. Sadler, the district nurse for the board of health, will be in charge of the exhibit and rest-room. The first-aid room is to be ready in case of possible illness or slight injury among the crowds.

The chairman of the committee having this exhibit and service in charge is Mrs. H. B. Elliot.

The Hilo Dramatic Club is planning to give William Gillette's "All the Comforts of Home" in October and rehearsals are already in progress. The play is a very laughable comedy and, as the club has some very talented members and capable direction, the performance is already assured of success.

SHOPPERS WILL FIND HILO WELL WORTH TOURING

London and Paris, as with New York or Chicago. They can and do buy tailored suits on Bond street, silk in China, footwear in that famous street of bargains in Paris, pearls in Japan, rugs in the original Oriental markets—before the war—and curios everywhere.

Find Business Bargain
They found business bargains in the shops and stores of Hilo. And being of a business turn of mind, they bought in Hilo before leaving for the Pacific coast.

They bought several useful things and several curios. It was in the useful articles of apparel that they found what they considered the greatest bargains.

The experience of this tourist couple is the experience of anyone who looks around Hilo at anything but a breakneck pace. It is a town of straightforward, legitimate American business bargains.

Large Stocks Carried
Hilo merchants carry large stocks and turn them over with a frequency which insures against shop-wearing and out-of-date styles. The very remoteness of Hilo from the source of supply makes it necessary for large, varied and attractive stocks to be carried.

Outside of the shops, Hilo's institutions also impress the observer as being solid, progressive and up-to-date.

It is a young city of homes and backed by an island with distinctly the largest resources of any island in the Territory—resources in sugar plantation fields, in timber, in cattle ranges—and in tourist attractions.

This city, which is bound to be much larger and to develop more and more along American lines, promotes wide-awake business establishments. Its financial institutions are impressive. It has agencies for all the big corporations operating in Honolulu, giving facilities and accommodations which make it unnecessary for people to travel to get service.

Its hotels and the hotels of the Big Island have an appreciative patronage. The Hilo hotel, the Volcano House, the Crater hotel—there is good service at all.

Some Shops to Visit
Its department stores have really splendid stocks and accommodations for customers. The Emporium, the E. N. Holmes Department store, are attractive not only to residents but to visitors—and when the attention of these busy travelers is once gained, business is sure to follow.

The People's store, the Hilo Furniture Company, and other mercantile establishments are well worth a visit.

The Hilo Drug Company, Machida's Drug Store and others cater to a discriminating trade and handle a large variety of business not always to be

1914 BABY SHOW SO SUCCESSFUL ANOTHER COMING

Will Be Part of County Fair and is Bound to Attract Attention

Hilo's first baby show, held during the first county fair, was an instant success and the second show, also in connection with the annual fair, is expected to be just as good or better.

The following classes and prizes are announced:

Class 1. Best baby in any class. Prize, $10 bank deposit, donated by the First Bank of Hilo.

Division 1. Open only to babies of Oriental parentage.

Class 1. Babies 3 months to 6 months of age. Prize, $5 bank deposit, given by Bishop & Company.

Class 2. Babies 6 months to 18 months. Prize, $5 cash prize.

Division 2. Open to all except babies of Oriental parentage.

Class 1. Babies 3 months to 6 months. Prize, $5 bank deposit, given by Bishop & Company.

Class 2. Babies 6 months to 18 months. Prize, $5 cash prize.

found in drug stores of metropolitan clientele.

Motor Transportation Excellent

Hilo's motor transportation facilities are generally conceded to be unsurpassed in the islands, both in cheapness and in service. It is astonishingly cheap to use an auto in Hilo and in addition to the "jitney" and the taxi there are plenty of large, comfortable, late-model cars for long jaunting trips or to carry a crowd.

The ease of travel in and around Hilo and the Big Island should be an increasing stimulus to tourist traffic. The tourist finds that it costs very little to see a great deal of the scenic wonders of this island.

The Hawaii Consolidated Railway, Ltd., has a line of scenic magnificence. Its road winds through marvelously beautiful country, much of it rugged with gorges and chasms and embellished with waterfalls wonderful as a poet's dream.

With garages whose managers are alert to serve the traveling public, and with transportation companies affording widely varied modes of touring the island, the visitor is assured that it will be neither costly nor inconvenient to see the natural attractions of this island.
